Conference Forward

The 2024 UKRI/Met Office Clean Air Conference, “Analysis and Solutions: Responding to the Clean Air Challenge,” will take place at Edgbaston Park Hotel and Conference Centre in Birmingham on the 2nd and 3rd of October 2024. This interdisciplinary event will bring together researchers, policymakers, industry professionals and representatives from non-profit organisations to create a platform for sharing insights and building relationships within the clean air community.

The conference will focus on 13 themes, as listed:

1. Air Pollution – Diverse Exposure Effects
2. Characterising Indoor Air Quality
3. The Changing Face of Ambient Air Quality
4. Air Quality and Net-Zero
5. Vulnerabilities and Inequalities in the Indoor Environment
6. Variations in Exposure to Indoor Pollution
7. Cross-disciplinary research towards solutions
8. Clean Air – The Need for Multi-sector Actions
9. New Tools for Air Quality Analysis
10. Emissions and Sources of Modern Air Pollution
11. Policy Application and Communication
12. Transport and Air Quality: Methods and Solutions
13. The Application of Air Quality Sensors

The event will feature talks and panel discussions from leaders in the field to help set the scene in topics such as the role of air pollution in the social determinants of health, inequalities, and the more recently recognised links to mental health. The conference will be exploring patients and the wider public's needs as well as the use of data science in connecting atmospheric and health data. We will be including special sessions for early career researchers (including chairing of sessions) and will be discussing the future of how we can continue to improve the air we all depend upon for life by building a Clean Air Research Community. The centrepiece of this will be our annual Martin Williams Lecture given this year by Prof Ally Lewis.

The substance of the 2 days will feature presentations and demonstrations of the research undertaken during the UKRI Clean Air SPF. We hope to use the various presentations to highlight the importance of community engagement, share valuable insights, and address the impacts of air pollution through effective policy measures. There will be an emphasis on community engagement in understanding and tackling air pollution issues, as well as providing actionable recommendations for policymakers to mitigate the harmful effects of air pollution on public health and the environment. By focusing on these aspects in the submitted abstracts, we can effectively communicate the significance of the work in air quality and its potential contributions to health and wellbeing in society and vulnerable groups as well as harnessing innovation.

Sessions and discussions will be geared towards exploring innovative strategies, sharing success stories, and fostering collaborations to drive meaningful impact. We hope the conference will inspire participants to take actions that will contribute to long-term positive change, so that our collective efforts lead to lasting and transformative outcomes.
